GREAT GAMER

Name: Alec

Heroic feat: His videogame, Super Ear to the Rescue, won the Screen It 2019 Junior Videogame category!

FAST FIVE WITH ALEC

K-Z: How did you find out about Screen It?

A: I saw Screen It online and decided it would be fun to enter a competition. We were doing a unit called Exploration at school and had to try something new. I hadn't entered a competition before but I had made a game. The theme was 'Listen' and I'd just learned that snakes have bad hearing. I decided to make a snake that was jealous of other creatures hearing, who tried to steal all the sounds. In the game, you are an ear that has to collect all the sounds without getting bitten by Jake the Snake, and save the world from silence.

K-Z: Had you made videogames before?

A: I had made a few games in Scratch. First I followed the code project instructions and then I made my own idea. I used Scratch and learned new skills as I went, like creating data variables to collect sounds and move between rooms. I learned to use a program called Gimp to cut out an image of my ear and make a sprite.

K-Z: What was your process?

A: I drew a plan, drew and scanned the backgrounds, traced it in Gimp and added colour and detail. I used a photo of my ear to make the main character sprite, and built the game in Scratch. I ended up cutting back from my plan. Once the game was built, I fixed it up and got someone to check my spelling. It took over three months to make, doing a little bit on weekends.

K-Z: What's next for your videogame career?

A: I'm going to make an animation about a wombat's journey and I'm working on a game called Cat Finder.

K-Z: What are your top tips for K-Zoners?

A: Create a good plan, realise it will take a long time and you can't do it in one sitting, and never give up.

IDEAS LAB

SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY, ENGINEERING, ART AND MATHS!

Meet Dr Rebecca Johnson, Chief Scientist of the Australian Museum, Director of the Australian Museum Research Institute, co-chief investigator of the Koala Genome Consortium, co-founder of the Oz Mammals Genome Initiative, and the new Chief Scientist at the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History in Washington DC!

KZ: Hi Rebecca! Tell us about your job!

R: I manage close to 100 people working in science as Director at the Australian Museum. As Chief Scientist, I'm expected to keep up with the current science. My research focus is wildlife forensics and conservation genetics.

KZ: What experience did you have before being Director and Chief Scientist?

R: I studied science at the University of Sydney, and then did my PhD at La Trobe University in Melbourne. I studied Queensland fruit flies (a pest that damages fruit and costs the industry money) for my honours thesis, then studied the evolution of weaving behaviour in ants for my PhD! This involved ant collection and more DNA sequencing. After my PhD, I had a research job at James Cook University in Townsville, using DNA to understand honey bee communication. I moved to Boston, USA for further research on honey bees and invasive wasps, and in 2003, I got a job at the Australian Museum as DNA laboratory manager. Twelve years later, I was offered the role of Chief Scientist and Director of the Australian Museum Research Institute.

KZ: What does the co-chief investigator of the Koala Genome Consortium do?

R: I gathered together researchers and seed funding to sequence the genome of the koala for the first time. It was a challenge, as a genome project of that scale had not been done in Australia before, and no one had sequenced the koala genome. We wanted to sequence it to have the best genomic data to conserve this species. By the time we finished the first genome in 2018, we had 54 researchers from seven countries working on the project.

KZ: What process was used to sequence the koala genome for the first time?

R: The koala genome was 'de novo' (the Latin phrase 'of new') and as the koala is a mammal, the genome was about the same size as the human genome. We used the same techniques used in human genetics like extracting the DNA, chopping it into pieces short enough for DNA sequencing, then reassembling the pieces as close as possible to their order in koala cells. It sounds simple, but this took about three years and used cutting-edge sequencing technology. We ran out of computer capacity in Australia while assembling the DNA pieces, but luckily, Amazon offered access to their cloud computer!

S: Anything where I get to run fast. I love to feel the wind through my quills.

K-Z: What was your first impression of Tom, AKA Donut Lord?

S: Tom? Tom's the coolest guy in the world. He can fit an entire donut into his mouth. It's incredible.

K-Z: Where would you go on holiday if you could use a ring to go there?

S: There are a lot of places I want to visit, like the bullet train in Japan, really any place where things go fast. Ooh! And Philadelphia. Nothing fast there, I just wanna try a cheesesteak.

K-Z: If you could race against any celebrity, who would you race?

S: Keanu Reeves. He doesn't look very fast or anything. I just wanna meet him. Big fan.

K-Z: Which of Dr. Robotnik's gadgets would you want to have?

S: Is his moustache a gadget? Because that thing is incredible!

WEEKS!

KZ: It really is! What's your morning routine?

S: I wake up at the crack of noon, have a bowl of cereal, then run a quick 800km to get the blood pumping. Gotta keep things loose.

MAD MAGIC

GET THE MAGICAL SCOOP ON THE NEW MOVIE, ONWARD!

ON WHERE?

Onward takes place in a suburban world where magical creatures like elves, dragons, unicorns, trolls, centaurs, gnomes, sprites, goblins, mermaids and fairies live among grocery stores, lawn mowers and garbage trucks. Despite the magical population, real magic has vanished. Magic wasn't very easy to master, so everyone eventually turned to using modern technology and scientific advancements. Now, real magic may only be a thing of the past...

UH OH...

Elf brothers Ian and Barley lost their father when they were young, but Ian receives a special gift on his 16th birthday – a staff and a spell that magically conjures their dad for one day. However, the spell goes wrong and they only conjure half of him – his legs, complete with signature purple socks. Yep, things are getting weird. With time running out, they begin a quest with unexpected obstacles. Can the brothers find magic and bring back their dad before 24 hours is up?

QUEST MESS

On their quest, Ian and Barley must seek the Manticore and an ancient map. Previously known as a mighty warrior, whose tavern served as a way station for weary travellers embarking on epic and dangerous quests, Cory the Manticore's tavern for heroes is now a family-friendly diner. Part lion, part bat and part scorpion, Cory has adapted to the changing times, but she definitely still has an adventurous spirit!

Onward
is in cinemas
April 2!

SPOT THE MUSIC FAN

FIND YOUR OWN MUSIC TRIBE!

ROCK

Black, grey and all the shades between are the favourites of these guitar-loving rebels. You can always spot a rock fan in a crowd, whether it's those super wild hairstyles or stacks of spiked accessories. A rock fan usually enjoys hearing their tunes at an ear-blistering volume.

COUNTRY

What floats a country music lover's boat? It's all about ballads from the heart and the twang of an acoustic guitar! Some peeps love songs about rebellion or candy, but these fans prefer hay bales and tractors. Cutting a rug is great and all, but have you ever danced in a line?

HIP-HOP

Hip-hop fans can usually be found listening to slick rhymes over groovy beats – if they aren't busy creating their own tracks. Ultimately poets at heart, some creators have the ability to come up with amazing lyrics on the spot. Just avoid talking about directions, coz it may cause a stir.

TECHNO

A techno fan believes any music that doesn't have glitchy electronics, driving beats and thumping bass is a waste of time. Glowsticks provide the best lighting, and dancing is the ultimate exercise.

*Trolls: World Tour
hits cinemas
March 26!*

RUNAWAY REBELS

THESE TWO CHARACTERS HAVE MORE IN COMMON THAN YOU THINK!

PETER RABBIT

WHO IS HE?

Peter Rabbit is a rabbit known for being mischievous and adventurous. Peter has developed a reputation for being a troublemaker.

YOU KNOW HIM FROM...

Peter Rabbit, a film released in 2018 and based on the stories written by Beatrix Potter in 1893. Now, Peter and the fam are back for a sequel!

LATEST ADVENTURE...

Peter decides to run away when he gets sick of his family thinking the worst of him. On his adventures, he makes a new friend called Barnabas. Barnabas is a rule breaker, and used to be buddies with Peter's dad! Is this the bunny Peter wants to be?

Peter Rabbit 2
is in cinemas
March 19!

MULAN

WHO IS SHE?

Hua Mulan is a quick thinking and determined young woman living in Imperial China.

YOU KNOW HER FROM...

Mulan's story is based on 'The Ballad of Mulan', which is over 1500 years old. Disney made an animated Mulan film in 1998, and now the tale is being turned into a live-action film!

LATEST ADVENTURE...

The Emperor of China declares one man from every family must serve in the Imperial Army to defend China from invaders. Mulan worries about her father and disguises herself as a man to take his place. Mulan must watch out for Xianniang (a powerful witch) and protect her own secret!

Mulan
is in cinemas
March 26!

DANGER

WE ASK MAXWELL JENKINS ABOUT BEING LOST IN SPACE AS WILL ROBINSON!

NEW SEASON, NEW PROBLEMS

The Robinson family are in for more danger and adventure in the second season of Lost In Space! Their ship is stuck on a mysterious ocean planet and the Robot is missing. Everyone quickly discovers things aren't what they seem, and threats start emerging as the family search for the key to finding the Robot, and safe passage to Alpha Centauri.

SPACE TRAVEL

M: Ever since I can remember, I've loved space travel. When I first walked into the world of Lost in Space, all I wanted to do was try on my spacesuit. I live in Chicago and I love it there, but I would definitely go into space, just like my character.

ROBO-BUDS

M: When I heard I was getting a robot best friend, I thought, 'What kid wouldn't want a robot!' I've been obsessed with robots since I was four; everything I wanted for my birthday or Christmas was always a robot. I even used to go to this robot city in Chicago with a friend in pre-k, to build and program robots.

STANDOUT SCENE

M: The scene that stood out to me the most in the first season was when Will met the Robot. The Robot is broken in half, and the legs chase Will through the forest. When Will climbs up a tree, he finds the Robot's top half swiping at him. An alien creature that looks like a butterfly flies in and Will is very curious about this new alien species. It flies over to the Robot, and the Robot is curious about the butterfly too. That triggers something in Will's mind and he starts to think, 'This robot isn't all that different to me, he is curious and has emotions'. A fire starts in the forest, and in his last effort to do something good, Will saves the Robot and ultimately that's the best decision he could have made.

Both seasons of Lost In Space are streaming now on Netflix!

Look, we're trying our best to avoid spoilers but you should probably stop reading if you haven't seen Endgame, OK? This Disney+ series will follow Sam Wilson and Bucky Barnes as they deal with the aftermath of the film, in which Steve Rogers handed Captain America's shield and mantle to Sam! Baron Zemo, who was responsible for the Avengers' breakup in Captain America: Civil War, will appear in the show. We'll also see what Sharon Carter (former S.H.I.E.L.D. agent and Peggy Carter's niece) has been doing since going on the run.

WANDAVISION

STREAMING ON DISNEY+

This show was originally planned for Disney+ in 2021, but Disney recently announced that the series release date was moved to 2020. WandaVision will be about Wanda Maximoff and Vision, and explains how Wanda becomes known as 'Scarlet Witch'. Monica Rambeau, who we saw as a child in Captain Marvel, will appear as an adult. The show creators have teased that the events of WandaVision will eventually be referenced in the Phase Four film, Doctor Strange and the Multiverse of Madness, which will hit cinemas in 2021.

IRON MAN VR

AVAILABLE IN 2020

This game is exclusive to PlayStation VR! Players use two PlayStation Move motion controllers to become Iron Man, while firing Repulsor Jets and blasting into the skies. In the game, Tony is attacked by the mysterious Ghost, a hacker who repurposes old Stark Industries weapons. In Ghost's efforts to destroy Tony's empire, she attacks his corporate locations around the world, leading to a final showdown.

MARVEL

TALENTED PERFORMER SAM LEE IS WEB-SLINGING AND GLIDING HIS WAY ACROSS AUSTRALIA

KZ: Hey Sam! How did you become a performer in Marvel Universe LIVE?

S: I first heard of Marvel Universe LIVE! when a training buddy landed a role in the early stages of the show. I thought it was incredible that this show existed, and it stayed in the back of my mind. In 2015, I saw auditions for the show were being held 20 minutes from where I worked so, on a whim, I decided to give it a chance. The audition lasted for about four hours and we went over basic acrobatics, martial arts skills, special skills and also fight choreography. It gave a glimpse of the show and how we measured up to that standard.

FAVE PART OF THE SHOW

S: My favourite parts of the show (watching or performing) are the flights! Web-slinging around the arena as Spidey or flying in on Goblin's glider is so fun and unreal to watch.

KZ: How did you become Spider-Man and Green Goblin?

S: Spider-Man requires a special skill set of acrobatics and fight choreography. Most of my training growing up was centred around traditional and performance martial arts, and that gave me a good base for what the role requires. It's also important to consider that the height and body type of the performer has to match the character as well. Since the height and build of Spider-Man and Green Goblin are similar, it allows me to play both.

BEING SPIDER-MAN VS GREEN GOBLIN

S: Spider-Man has more playful and youthful mannerisms associated with being a 'friendly neighbourhood' hero. The movements are sharper and fun, whereas Green Goblin has a more menacing and heavy gait. However, Goblin has a sinister type of playfulness too. There's enough contrast between the two that it's fun to switch between them!

MADNESS

RAILIA WITH MARVEL UNIVERSE LIVE!

KZ: Have you learned anything new while performing in the show?

S: There is an incredible process that goes into every show. Performing for MUL, I've come to understand how the flight systems work, the nature of the pyrotechnics, and costuming. However, developing the acting skills that go into characters has been the most impactful for me. I have a greater appreciation for the mentality that's needed to be a performer.

BIGGEST CHALLENGE

S: The Spider-Man scene in New York City is, by far, the most difficult scene to perform. To pull off the non-stop fighting, flipping, and web-slinging requires an incredible amount of athleticism. I'm exhausted by the end of the scene but always happy to save the day.

KZ: Experimental science gave Peter Parker powers, but if you could have an ability, what would you choose?

S: As a kid I wanted to fly, and as an adult I think I would prefer regeneration powers.

KZ: Green Goblin uses futuristic technology, but what tech would you want to invent?

S: It's a stretch but I would have to go with nanotechnology that creates a layer over my body. It would respond to my movements to enhance them to super strength levels, but also serve as defense too.

KZ: If you could be any of the other characters in MUL, who would it be?

S: Black Panther or Iron Fist. Both characters have acrobatic skills, fight choreography, and really cool character movements.

FUNNIEST BEHIND THE SCENES STORY

S: Every show has a level of unpredictability because it's live, but the performances are so consistent. It's only later that we hear someone finished a scene with their shoe half on, or was able to recover after mistimed choreography.

Marvel Universe LIVE! hits Adelaide in March, then goes to Melbourne, Brisbane, Sydney and Perth in April. Visit www.marveluniverselive.com for more info!

ESCAPE THE WEIRD THINGS HAPPEN IN THE K-ZONE LAB...

BEHIND THE SCENES

The K-Zone Lab is a top secret underground research institute below K-Zone HQ. Very few can enter the premises, and even fewer can escape it. The dedicated team of scientists work tirelessly, undertaking unique research or perfecting daring creations. Some projects have been a huge success, others... not so much. The team is lead by Dr. Eyevile G. Enius, whose speciality is goo-based creations. He is the only K-Zone scientist that has managed to avoid being involved in an accident at the lab... so far.

MONKEY MADNESS

Dr. Mon Keye is one of the most promising scientists of her time. The doctor was attempting to genetically alter bananas, in order to make them grow twice as large at twice the speed. She was on the verge of successfully creating the perfect banana when a monkey broke into the K-Zone Lab and startled the scientist. The experiment ended up accidentally genetically altering the doctor and the monkey! Dr. Mon Keye is determined to complete her objective and continues to work on genetically altering bananas. If only she could stop eating half her research!

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN ENTHUSIAST

Tutankheyemun has been fascinated by ancient Egypt since he was a child. When it was finally time for him to choose a professional field of study, ancient Egyptian artefacts was a no brainer. One day, the professor was studying artefacts in the K-Zone Lab and needed to go to the bathroom. While Tutankheyemun was inside, lightning struck the lab and a bizarre accident merged his DNA with toilet paper! Dr. Eyevile G. Enius tried to find a cure, but turned Tutankheyemun green instead.

FOREVER FROZEN

Brain freeze while eating ice cream is the worst, right? Eystenstein was trying to find a way to stop brain freeze so people could eat as much ice cream as they want. Unfortunately, his experiments went too far and his body is now permanently freezing cold. This meant he could no longer use himself as a test subject and the risky project was eventually abandoned. Eystenstein is currently looking for his next passion project.

MAD SCIENCE

TRY PROFESSOR EYEVILE G. ENIUS' DISSOLVING CHALK EXPERIMENT!

WHAT YOU NEED

- A piece of chalk
- One to two cups of vinegar
- A bowl
- A measuring cup

STEP 1

Pour one cup of vinegar into the bowl for a small piece of chalk, or two cups if it's a large piece.

STEP 2

Carefully put the chalk into the bowl. Watch closely to see small bubbles start to appear. This is the chalk reacting with the vinegar!

STEP 3

Leave the chalk in the vinegar for a day or two – the chalk will start to dissolve!

THE SCIENCE!

This experiment shows how limestone caves are formed! Chalk is a type of limestone, and consists of calcium carbonate. Since vinegar is an acid, the two react when mixed together. The acid eats the calcium carbonate and releases carbon dioxide bubbles. On a larger scale in nature, acid rain or weak acids in the groundwater will gradually eat through limestone and cause a cavity, which forms a cave!

GUINNESS WORLD RECORDS

BRING ON THE BOT BATTLES!

LARGEST HUMANOID VEHICLE

A Japanese mechanical company called Sakakibara Kikai built this Mononofu (meaning 'samurai warrior') over six years. Their incredible build was verified on December 7, 2018, measuring 8.46m high, 4.27m long and 4m wide. Mononofu is reported to weigh around 7.3 tonnes! The warehouse entrance where Mononofu was built in Gunma, Japan was only 7m high, so the head had to be removed when the bot was taken outside. One developer, Masaaki Nagumo, says they drew inspiration from different Japanese animes and that they wanted their creation to have a cockpit for a human to control it. The arms, hands and legs can move, so just imagine piloting it in battle!

DRIVERLESS TO IMPRESS!

Meet the M19-D! This is Australia's first student-built, fully autonomous race car, created by students from Monash University's Monash Motorsport team. Monash Motorsport first began development on the M19-D in 2016, with over 200 undergraduate students working on the project. The talented team designed and built its innovative and high-performance features. The car is able to detect the racetrack and perceive the environment in real time, and has an advanced laser scanner (or LiDAR unit), as well as a GPS unit that can locate the race car within a 10cm radius. The M19-D also has an electric powertrain with more than 1000km of track testing, and a stereoscopic camera system that can perceive distance similar to the human eye using AI. Competing since 2000, Monash is second in the world in the internal combustion category, and recently ranked seventh in the world with its first electric vehicle!

TECH, GADGETS AND GEAR THAT WE HOPE WILL GRACE OUR FUTURE!

HYPER BOUNCE KICKS

Roller shoes are good and all, but what we really want to see in the next few years are feet mattresses that get serious air. Think about this: what if your sole soothers could bounce like a super bounce ball? Not only would your volleyball game up its ante, but slam-dunks would be as regular as the school bell. It may run parkour lovers out of business, but that's a risk we're willing to take. Before you know it, you could be saving cats from trees and be able to leap tall buildings in a single bound!

MMM...

HOUSEHOLD 3D PRINTERS

There's no doubt that 3D printers have improved over the years. These machines have gone from producing small (but cool) objects to now creating everything from helmets to guitars! We're hoping for advancements in 3D printing tech to allow for home use, and make the technology as standard as a refrigerator or washing machine. Talk about practical solutions at your fingertips! Accidentally put a hole in a wall after a game of lounge room footy? Piece of cake! You can create a new house from scratch with your home 3D printer, so you will have somewhere to spend the rest of your life avoiding your angry parents. Ah yes, nothing like a simple, straightforward solution.

ANIMAL TRANSLATOR APP

We're surprised it doesn't exist already, to be honest. We believe every K-Zoner, nay, everyone in the world, needs a free app that helps humans communicate with their pets, Dolittle style. It's only fair, considering mobile apps already exist to translate international human languages. Imagine the benefits! You could say, 'Hey Bella, why did you poo inside my Hyper Bounce Kicks?' to your golden retriever and she could reply, 'You were too busy gaming to take me outside and I really needed to go!' Once you have both shared this information, you can finally discuss the issue and come to an understanding. Basically, the app will help your relationship grow stronger and better.

MINING EARTH

We tunnel into the augmented reality of Minecraft Earth with Game Director Torfi Olafsson!

KZ: What was the original idea for Minecraft Earth?

T: There was this dream of Minecraft in the real world, but an inability to execute on a broad scale. We built a lot of prototypes but it just didn't feel right. It didn't feel authentic.

KZ: Why's that?

T: A lot of the original ideas were just bad, so we had to throw them out. Things didn't work. The second prototype, which had everything in it – crafting, health, meeting, adventures, building – was being played by the whole team over a year ago.

KZ: Lucky! How did that go?

T: That actually taught us a lot. The first person to find resources to build a diamond pickaxe got a big box of LEGO to take home.

KZ: That would motivate us!

T: The team was running around town digging into the ground and pretending to be playing Pokémon GO when asked. It actually made us change the game mechanics. Today, when you and I play an adventure together and we see a diamond in the ground, if I dig it up, you get a copy of the diamond as well.

KZ: Sharing is caring!

T: Well, it's terrible for the game economy, but great for gameplay because suddenly people are incentivised to play together more. That's been the North Star in all of the design decisions: this game is social and collaborative from the ground up.

KZ: What other games, like Pokémon GO, were influences?

T: Minecraft Earth is an amalgam of a lot of different influences. Our focus is more on the building augmented reality and adventure experience, rather than the pure collection experience.

KZ: How can players help shape the game?

T: We're very conscious of how much value player feedback can give to a product. Minecraft would be nothing without the community. We try to keep an open mind for where the game should go based on what the community wants, rather than what we think is right.

POKÉMON SWORD AND SHIELD

Armed with five fantastic tips, you will be ready to conquer Galar in Pokémon Sword and Shield!

► BALL MASTERY

There's only one Master Ball in Pokémon Sword and Shield. You nab it after you beat the game! Following the credits, leave your room and chat to the lady, who gives you a Master Ball.

► CATCHING CHARMANDER

Snag Charmander after the credits. Head outside, then follow the road to the right. Go into Hop's home, then upstairs and into the room on the right. Nab the Poké Ball on the floor to score Charmander!

► LUCKY CHARMS

For three Charms, nab all 400 Pokémon in the Galar Pokédex, and become Champion of the Pokémon League. Head right from the Pokémon Centre in Circhester to the hotel. On the second floor, go to the second room on the left. Speak to the doctor for Catching Charm and Shiny Charm. Battle the cop in the first door on the left for the Oval Charm!

► NABBING PIKACHU

Pikachu is hiding in the grass above the Galar Mine on Route 4. Look for a kid dressed as Pikachu, then find actual Pikachu's yellow ears. No luck? Head back to town, then revisit. Pikachu is best battled with a Ground Pokémon.

► EIGHT EEEVES

Nab your Eevee in the field near the Eevee Pokékid on Route 4. Hit Happiness 160, and level up during the day for Espeon, at night for Umbreon, or with a Fairy Type move for Sylveon. Alternatively, use Fire Stone for Flareon, Ice Stone for Glaceon, Leaf Stone for Leafeon, Thunder Stone for Jolteon or Water Stone for Vaporeon. Good luck!

CONCRETE GENIE

You don't need to rub a lamp to summon these Concrete Genie tips! Here's how to edge your completion percentage closer to 100!

► SKETCHY SKETCHES

There are 126 Sketchbook Pages to be found in Concrete Genie. The Pages aren't marked on the map. Ouch! This epic count includes 60 Features, 48 Designs and 18 Genies. Check garbage cans and rooftops for a bunch of 'em. You'll also need to chase some down. Pro tip: Designs are usually nearby when you need them most.

► BACKTRACK BILLBOARDS

The Concrete Genie map marks all five Billboards for completionists. Despite this, leave 'em until after the game. It's easier to do once you have all of the specific Designs (48 in total) to match their shape perfectly.

► DREAMY GENIES

Genie Moment Sketches are trickier than the Billboards, because they are not marked on the map. There's also 20 of them! You can totes blitz past 'em because, once again, you need specific Designs to finish them all. There are three Genie Moment Sketches at the Lighthouse, five at the Fishing Port, seven at the Hydroelectric Plant and another five at The Waterways.

TRIO O' TIPS

Tackle some of the toughest parts to be found in Yooka-Laylee and the Impossible Lair, Untitled Goose Game, and New Super Lucky's Tale with these tips!

► SECRET TONIC

There's a tonic stashed away in Yooka-Laylee and the Impossible Lair's overworld. Head to the lake in the area near Chapters 12 and 13. Find the red fire berry bush. Below it, there's a wooden fence. Buddy Slam the right fence post to nab the tonic! Now you've got the Gritty Comic FX filter.

► ROYAL GOOSE

Once you've done everything, there's one more task in Untitled Goose Game. Pull on and flip the big ribbon-wrapped present on the rock at home, until a crown falls out. Drag it to the newspaper guy wearing slippers. Move into a corner so he can trap you. He'll pop the crown on your noggin!

► INFINITE LIVES

This sneaky tip for New Super Lucky's Tale works in the original Super Lucky's Tale, too! When you have unlocked the Boss Gate of Veggie Village, head through the portal. Don't battle yet! Stay away from that platform for now. Nab the 1-Up, then enter the start menu. Go to 'world select', then 'Veggie Village'. This will teleport you back outside the Boss Portal. Repeat for more lives!

For PS4, use down, up, down, down, right, up, down, right, triangle and down.

► SECRET WORLD

This is the first game for developer Streamline Games, but the dev team is full of game makin' veterans. When they aren't busy cooking up Bake 'n Switch, they're helping with other games, like SpongeBob SquarePants: Battle for Bikini Bottom - Rehydrated!

BAKE 'N SWITCH

Cook up a whole mess of fun and mayhem in the dough-lightful couch co-op (or PvP) party game Bake 'n Switch!

What word means deer, money, a paste that makes bread, a grunt and a musical note? D'ohn't you know it's 'dough'! In Bake 'n Switch, you're on the money if you guessed the dough we're dealing with is the bread kind. Bready or not, let's get cookin'. Bake 'n Switch is kinda Overcooked, and there aren't any fancy cookbooks required to understand this gameplay recipe. Chase down the small balls of dough, catch those adorable precooked critters and then bake 'em up. Make sure to watch out for any of the maleficent mouldy spores. You have to stop them from infecting the dough if you want to score big. Combo more dough for bigger buns. You're baking against the ticking clock in this cook off. Team up with kitchen-hand mates for tasty four-player couch co-op, or sink your teeth into the delicious food fight of chef versus chef. ### DID YOU KNOW?

Grounded seems inspired by a classic 1989 movie called Honey, I Shrunk The Kids. In the movie, an inventor accidentally shrinks his kids and tosses them in the bin. Whoops! Grounded takes that miniature idea, then increases the survival stakes and action.

GROUNDING

In Grounded, there's one small problem... you're only the size of an ant! Getting grounded has never been more fun!

Critters that are stacks smaller than us are supes scary when you're the same size. In Grounded, you'll shrink to be even smaller than a toy. We're talking as tiny as Ant-Man, except you won't be able to grow back to normal human size! You will quickly find that without Scott Lang's super suit, tons of teeny tiny things can be terrible, towering threats. With all of that in mind, the backyard is now a battlefield. Start off by sniffing around the dirt roads to find the right resources. Thirsty? Easy fix. Slurp some delicious dew off a blade of grass. For the fighting stuff, you'll need armour. Nab a nearby nutshell to use as armour. That will definitely help against armies of ants and tricky spider boss battles. You'll absolutely want to build a cosy home base, so harvest the grassy forests and crack open pebbles. It's like Minecraft, only miniature! Slap it all together to build a tiny fortress that can help protect you from any invading insect forces.

DID YOU KNOW?

In Drake Hollow, a Drake is a veggie villager, but in Pokémon Omega Ruby and Alpha Sapphire, Drake is a moustache-loving trainer. A drake is also a male duck, or a kind of dragon!

DRAKE HOLLOW

Say hello to kooky and (deffo) spooky Drake Hollow. This scary place is far from safe and full of roaming monsters to put to bed (for good)!

With so many rad games to play, it's hard to find time to get bored IRL. In Drake Hollow, the main character feels bored until she meets a strange crow with green eyes and a compass around its neck. What? Obviously, she follows the crow when it flies away, and then teleports to another world – as you do. It's time to say hello to the Hollow. This funky-fresh place is packed with little vegetable villagers called Drakes. They are all walking, talking and laughing vegetable people. They aren't bright, but they do need your help with the Hollow's blight. Thankfully, they don't bite! Unfortunately the baddies in the game do, and they have a taste for the herbal heroes too. All of the foul foes seem built for veggie nomming, coz they are basically just a bunch of creepy mouths-with-legs. So, set those Drakes to work on building bases, fetch the right supplies, then battle the greedy goons to stop your new veggie pals from being completely cooked.

PRO TIP!
Try to tackle the easier brawls first. Match your level to the brawler you want to floor, or chase bragging rights for tougher fights!

DRAGON BALL Z: KAKAROT

We're just super-Saiyan that there are more than a few fantastic fisticuffs to be fought and found in Dragon Ball Z: Kakarot!

What exactly is a Kakarot? Dragon Ball fans speak the lingo, but here is the sitch. 'Kakarot' is Goku's Saiyan name, Goku is the main character in Dragon Ball, and Saiyan is an alien race in this universe. Hmm. This is all getting a bit more confusing. Oops! OK, OK. Let's simplify. Dragon Ball Z: Kakarot is all about the epic slugfests. Imagine a big bash league (without bats and balls) between Superman and Captain Marvel. Now you get just how massive these brawls can be. Fans and fresh-faced fighters will love that this tells the anime story from the start – so no previous viewing is necessary. Roam the land and jump into a few larger than life throwdown showdowns. You will be throwing punches that smack foes right across the map, then level up for some even bigger bouts. The game isn't just all about bashing. There's also fishing, hunting, questing and stacks more fun to try on the side.

PRO TIP!

Keep a close eye on ghost racers in Spirit Trials to shave off seconds. The speed run sprints are great training for the main game. It helps you learn shortcuts and high speed tricks, coz the prerecorded competitors can't hide their sneaky speed moves! Mimic the fastest ones for boost tricks.

ORI AND THE WILL OF THE WISPS

There's no point Wisp-ering about the fact we really love Ori's next epic adventure in Ori and the Will of the Wisps, and you will too!

This forest is out to getcha, which is why we're thankful Ori is up to the task. There are many more baddies than trees in Ori and the Will of the Wisps! It's a good thing the devs have made fighting a bigger focus in this sweet sequel. Plus, Ori has the right fighting spirit. Pepper your foes with arrows from range with Spirit Arc, slash away with Spirit Edge, or just embrace the power of Spirit Smash for heavy hammer attacks. All those tiny terrors won't know what hit 'em! Of course, we aren't forgetting the towering bosses. There's a man-sized spider that will haunt our dreams, a very freaky wolf, a molten-mouthed worm, a fast-moving flying freak and a tentacled monster from the deep. It's not all about the battles. Do your part to help out all the friendly forest peeps by tackling some side quests, OK? It's time to jump, swing and slide your way through several platforming puzzles and enjoy saving the day.

UNF-AIR PLANE

On holidays with my family, I was told I'd be the next one to sit in the window seat. Unfortunately, on our next flight we didn't have a window in my row. I was sad for most of the plane ride.

UNLUCKY!

WET IN THE WILD

We were playing tag on a school excursion when a gust of wind blew my hat off my head. It landed in a nearby creek and I had to wade in to get it back. I had to walk around wet for the rest of the day!

Cooper, Qld

SO UNLUCKY!

SWITCH STITCH UP

When I was leaving my grandmother's house, I didn't notice my Nintendo Switch and games had fallen out of my backpack. By the time I realised what had happened, someone had already taken them!

Adam, Vic

HEAPS UNLUCKY!

MCHUMILIATED

I was at McDonalds with my family and asked to play in the playground. When I came back, I thought my parents were ordering food so I went to the counter and hugged my mum. It turned out to be a random lady ordering her food. It was so embarrassing!

PRANKS! PRANKS! PRANKS!

PRACTICAL, HILARIOUS AND DOWNRIGHT CHEEKY!

CHEMICAL X

This works best on a hot day. Leave a glass filled with green cordial on the kitchen bench. Wait for a thirsty family member to drink it, and then walk in holding a test tube. Spot them drinking the green liquid and exclaim, 'Oh! I was just looking for that!'

EXPERIMENT FAIL

Spike your hair up with some hair gel. Dirty your face and clothes. Cue a loud explosion on some speakers, then rush to your parents and say 'You might need to call an electrician!'

K-ZONE PRANK

VR TRAP

If you have a cheap or faulty VR headset, coat the inside of the goggles with some non-toxic washable marker, then make a friend wear them. Mention you have a new VR app they should try out. See how long they last before noticing the markings on their face. LOL!

Bridget, WA

PRANK-STAR'S PICK

KID'S BEST FRIEND

Run an experiment to determine who is easier to train using reward-based learning – the pet or a younger sibling. Start with a handshake or high five and work up to complex tasks, like fetching a K-Zone mag. Success = a treat. Present your findings.
